PRIMA WASHING MACHINE

ADD - A NEW PRINCIPLE APPLIED TO WASHING - ADD

Most modern inventions have their origin in the application of an old principle in a new way. The Prima Domestic Laundry Machine, made by the Buckeye Churn Company, Sidney, Ohio, depends for its efficiency upon one of these old principles, that of surface tension. If a soap bubble is blown from a clay pipe and the air allowed to escape through the pipe stem, the bubble will contract until all the air is forced out. The soapy film composing the bubble has a really wonderful amount of strength, so great is the attraction of its constituent molecules for each other. In washing with the Prima Domestic Laundry Machine, the important factor is the hammer stroke of the elliptical tub which breaks the soapy water, or suds, into small drops, and at the same time drives it directly through the fabric of the clothes. The particles of soapy
